REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: None of the prior art of record teach or suggest an arrangement for the removable attachment of a stretching rod on a movable slide belonging to a machine for stretch-blow molding, the attachment device comprising: a casing that is attached to the slide, having a top and bottom transverse partition, each partition having an axial opening allowing the rod to pass therethrough; a bearing element that comprises several circumferential portions radially clamped onto a section of a stretching rod that is designed to be inserted axially inside the housing of the casing while passing through the top axial opening of the casing, and having a top transverse surface designed to come to bear axially against a portion of the bottom inner face of the top transverse partition of the casing during the stretching step, and a bottom transverse surface designed to come to bear axially against a portion of the top inner face of the bottom transverse partition of the casing in order to hold the rod axially down in the casing, so that the stretching rod can be attached to the slide by a mount of the bayonet type, the top end section of the bearing element is formed by at least two radial lugs of rounded profile, in transverse section, the top transverse bearing surface being formed by the top transverse face of the lugs, and in that the transverse profile formed by the peripheral edge of the top opening of the casing substantially matches the profile of the lugs. Kauffman et al (4,141,680: figure 29) discloses a stretch rod (241) attached to a bearing element (260) by a key (257), but fails to disclose or suggest the bayonet connection of the bearing element to the housing.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
